Silverwork goes back centuries in Laos. Blanc de Noir preserves and celebrates this part of Laotian culture by making exquisite pieces using traditional techniques and motifs with a subtle modern twist. These motifs were once reserved for royal use during ceremonies and for special occasions.

Blanc de Noir, a family owned business which has been making traditional jewelry for forty years. They include the symbolic flower motif of prosperity on each piece as a reminder that for centuries Laotians have been treasuring silver jewelry. Blanc de Noir's artisans are aware of how important it is to preserve jewelry-making techniques which are in danger of being lost. Today, there are very few jewelers with the skill and training necessary to produce traditional Lao jewelry.
