The history of the Zenu culture dates-back-to pre-Hispanic times. Since that time, the Zenu have been master weavers, using a local species of grass called arrow cane or caña flecha. The mastery of this craft is what has saved them from the poverty and neglect that has affected many indigenous people of Latin America.

Finatur Design has been working with the Zenu people, providing logistics and marketing, creating links with international markets and acting as proud ambassadors of the native peoples.
